

Fighting Heat Intolerance with the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation

ALL COOLSHIRT NEWS, INDUSTRIAL

To a person who is medically intolerant to heat, a personal cooling system doesn't just offer comfort. It provides mobility, independence, and greater opportunity in daily life.

Multiple sclerosis, or MS, is a potentially disabling disease that affects the brain and central nervous system. Symptoms tend to worsen in hot conditions. As a result, many people with MS are restricted in their activities and must spend more time indoors.

That's why COOLSHIRT joined in a relationship with the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation, which provides comprehensive, free support to those who have MS. Through the partnership, COOLSHIRT offers products to improve mobility and cooling.

This includes:

- MobileCool BP2, our light, portable backpack system.
- MobileCool WP1, a lightweight, self-contained waist pack.
- Tubed shirts and vests that provide full cooling coverage for the wearer.

Each of these systems allows the wearer to stay comfortable on-the-go and even in hot conditions. According to Steve Wakefield, Chief Financial Officer of COOLSHIRT, "By partnering with the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation, COOLSHIRT hopes to help people maintain a safer body temperature and a better quality of life."
